Core Curriculum:

LEAD 701: Foundations of the Dissertation

The first course in the research strand provides scholar-practitioners with foundational knowledge, skills, and practices to build their doctoral research at ACU. This course charts a roadmap for the research journey that will eventually culminate in a dissertation.

EDUO 704 - Effective Communication as an Education Leader

Explores the principles underlying public relations in K-12 education concerning organizational, interpersonal, and cross-cultural communication in educational and community settings by developing written and verbal skills for specific contexts (including crisis management, school community support, and public relations) for developing inclusive systems and favorable outcomes for all stakeholders.

EDUO 708 - Learning Instruction and Innovation

Examines curriculum and instruction from a leadership perspective with an analysis of the various determinants of, approaches to, and the systematic evaluation of curriculum in K-12 education settings. Students examine current issues, including reform efforts and policy measures with an impact on curricular decisions, and the effects of curriculum.

EDUO 712 - Managing Human Capital

Explores how to effectively manage human resources in the public school system. Examines the formulation and implementation of strategic staffing, recruitment and selection, training and development, performance appraisal, compensation and benefits, and the evaluation of the effectiveness of human resource management frameworks and practices.

EDUO 716 - Schools as Organizations

Encourages students to self-reflect on advocacy, and use of theoretical frameworks and research to advance excellence and equity in education. Students will gain skills in establishing cross-cultural relationships to enhance academic achievement and advance social justice while acting as fearless agents of change to guarantee academic excellence for all students.

EDUO 724 - Theories in Educational Leadership

Examines the elements of strategic leadership to develop skills for the comprehension of motivational and problem-solving approaches by fusing theory and practice to design, implement, maintain, and evaluate change initiatives within K-12 institutions. The student will study the roles of servant leadership, credibility, vision, empowerment, and strategy for educational leaders.

Research Courses:

LEAD 765: Building the Problem of Practice

The second of four dissertation courses supports student progress toward the dissertation through the creation of a viable problem statement. Topics include: the function and components of a problem statement, using peer-reviewed research to justify the problem statement, and connecting the problem statement to leadership concepts and the student's concentration.

LEAD 781: Organizational Assessment & Evaluation

Examines key concepts, methods, and approaches in the field of evaluation research. Students will be exposed to theoretical and methodological options in current evaluation practice across social service, education, and business contexts. The comprehensive range of activities involved in designing, implementing, and assessing organizational effectiveness will be explored.

LEAD 784: Qualitative & Action Research Methods

Engages students in the study of qualitative and action research methods. Students will understand the philosophical and ethical foundations of qualitative research and be introduced to qualitative methodology. Students will study the threefold process of action research focusing on improvement in the leader's practices, his/her understanding of those practices, and the situations in which those practices are carried out.

LEAD 786: Quantitative Analysis

Provides instruction in the basic distributions, such as binomial and normal, and introduces hypothesis methodology. Students will apply inferential techniques including chi-square, the analysis of variance and covariance, and multivariate analysis to a variety of organizational issues and scholarly pursuits. In addition to utilizing these tools and techniques in their own work, this course will assist learners in become informed consumers of research.

LEAD 793: Dissertation Prospectus Seminar, Pt 1

This is the third of four dissertation courses that guide students in the completion of the dissertation prospectus.

LEAD 794: Dissertation Prospectus Seminar, Pt 2

This is the fourth of four dissertation courses that guide students in the completion of the dissertation prospectus.

Dissertation Credits (minimum of 6 hours)

LEAD 799: Dissertation Research

Completion of dissertation research and dissertation defense. This course is available for variable credit. Please see your advisor for more information. Prerequisite: Student has been assigned a dissertation chair.

Dissertation Research credit hours are taken under the supervision of the student's dissertation chair in preparation of the dissertation and defense. The six credit hours are typically earned by taking one credit hour for each part of term of continuous enrollment. A credit/no credit grade will be earned each part of term based on progress toward goals set by the student and chair. Any dissertation work needed beyond the required six credit hours would necessitate enrollment in dissertation continuation courses.
